Long Description:

From the NRHP: "The Ellis-Martin House is a two-story Craftsman house. The house faces east with the ridgeline perpendicular to East Washington Street. It has an irregular footprint and moderately pitched hipped roof with flared eaves. It is wood frame construction of true dimension Redwood, with a composition shingle roof and concrete foundation. It is finished with shingles on the exterior, and lath and plaster with fir wainscoting on the interior. It has a largely symmetrical front facade, with asymmetrical side and rear facades. The front facade features a full-width front porch with a gabled front entry flanked by pergolas. Windows throughout are double-hung and fixed with multiple lights." (visit link)
